

I proposed a significantly different approach from the original design with the aim significantly boosting the site from an information findability perspective as well ensuring it would work well across desktop, tablet and mobile devices.

